Helping your children choose books they will love

Lovereading4kids.co.uk is a book website created for parents and children to make choosing books easy and fun

Opening extract from

You Can't Take an Elephant on the Bus

Written by

Patricia Cleveland-Peck

Illustrated by

David Tazzyman

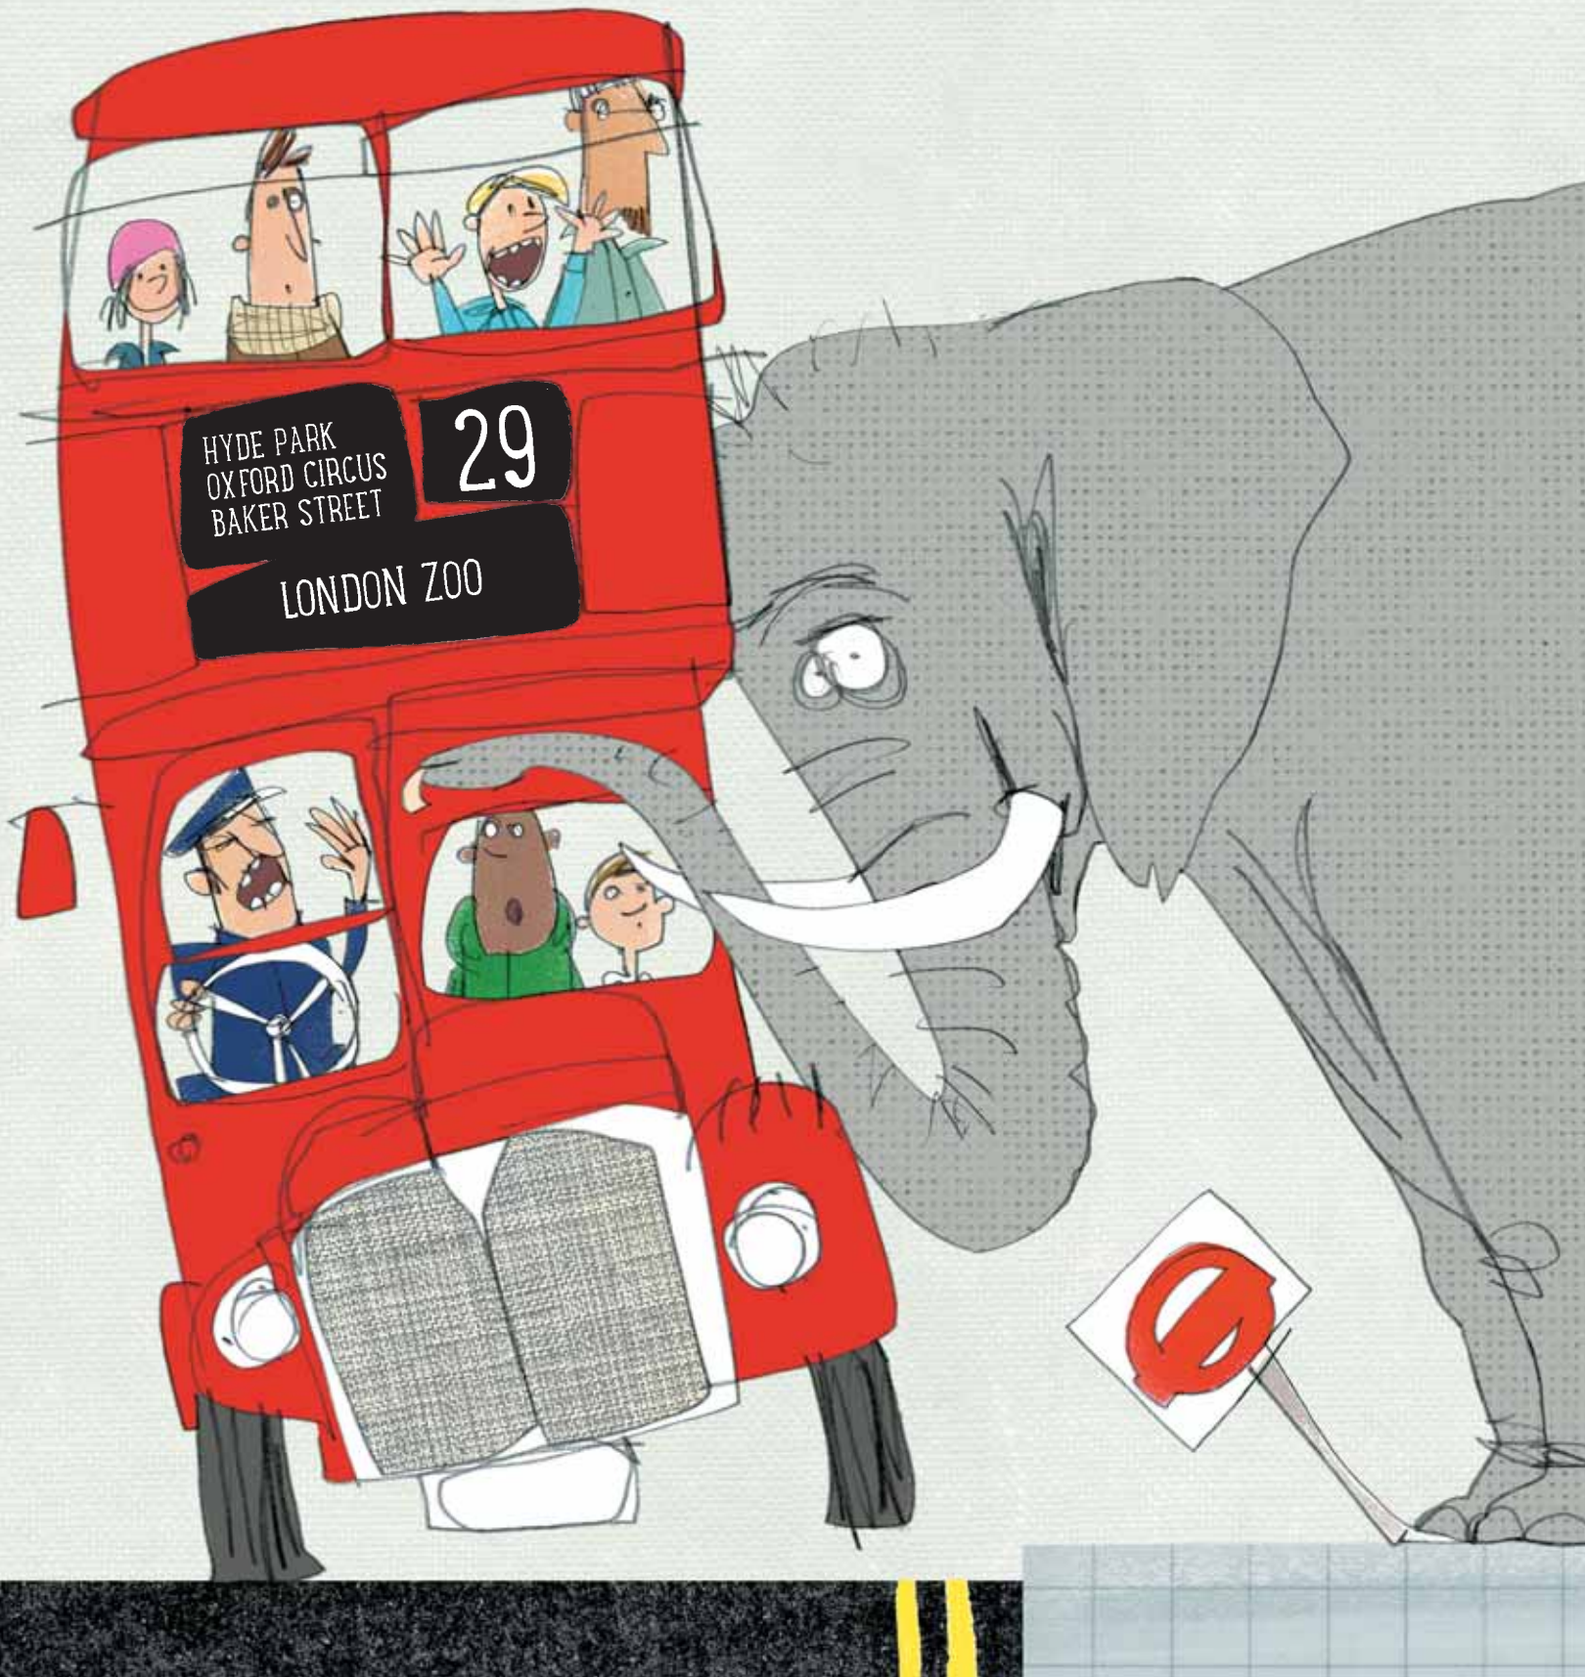

Published by

Bloomsbury Publishing PLC

All Text is Copyright © of the Author and/or Illustrator

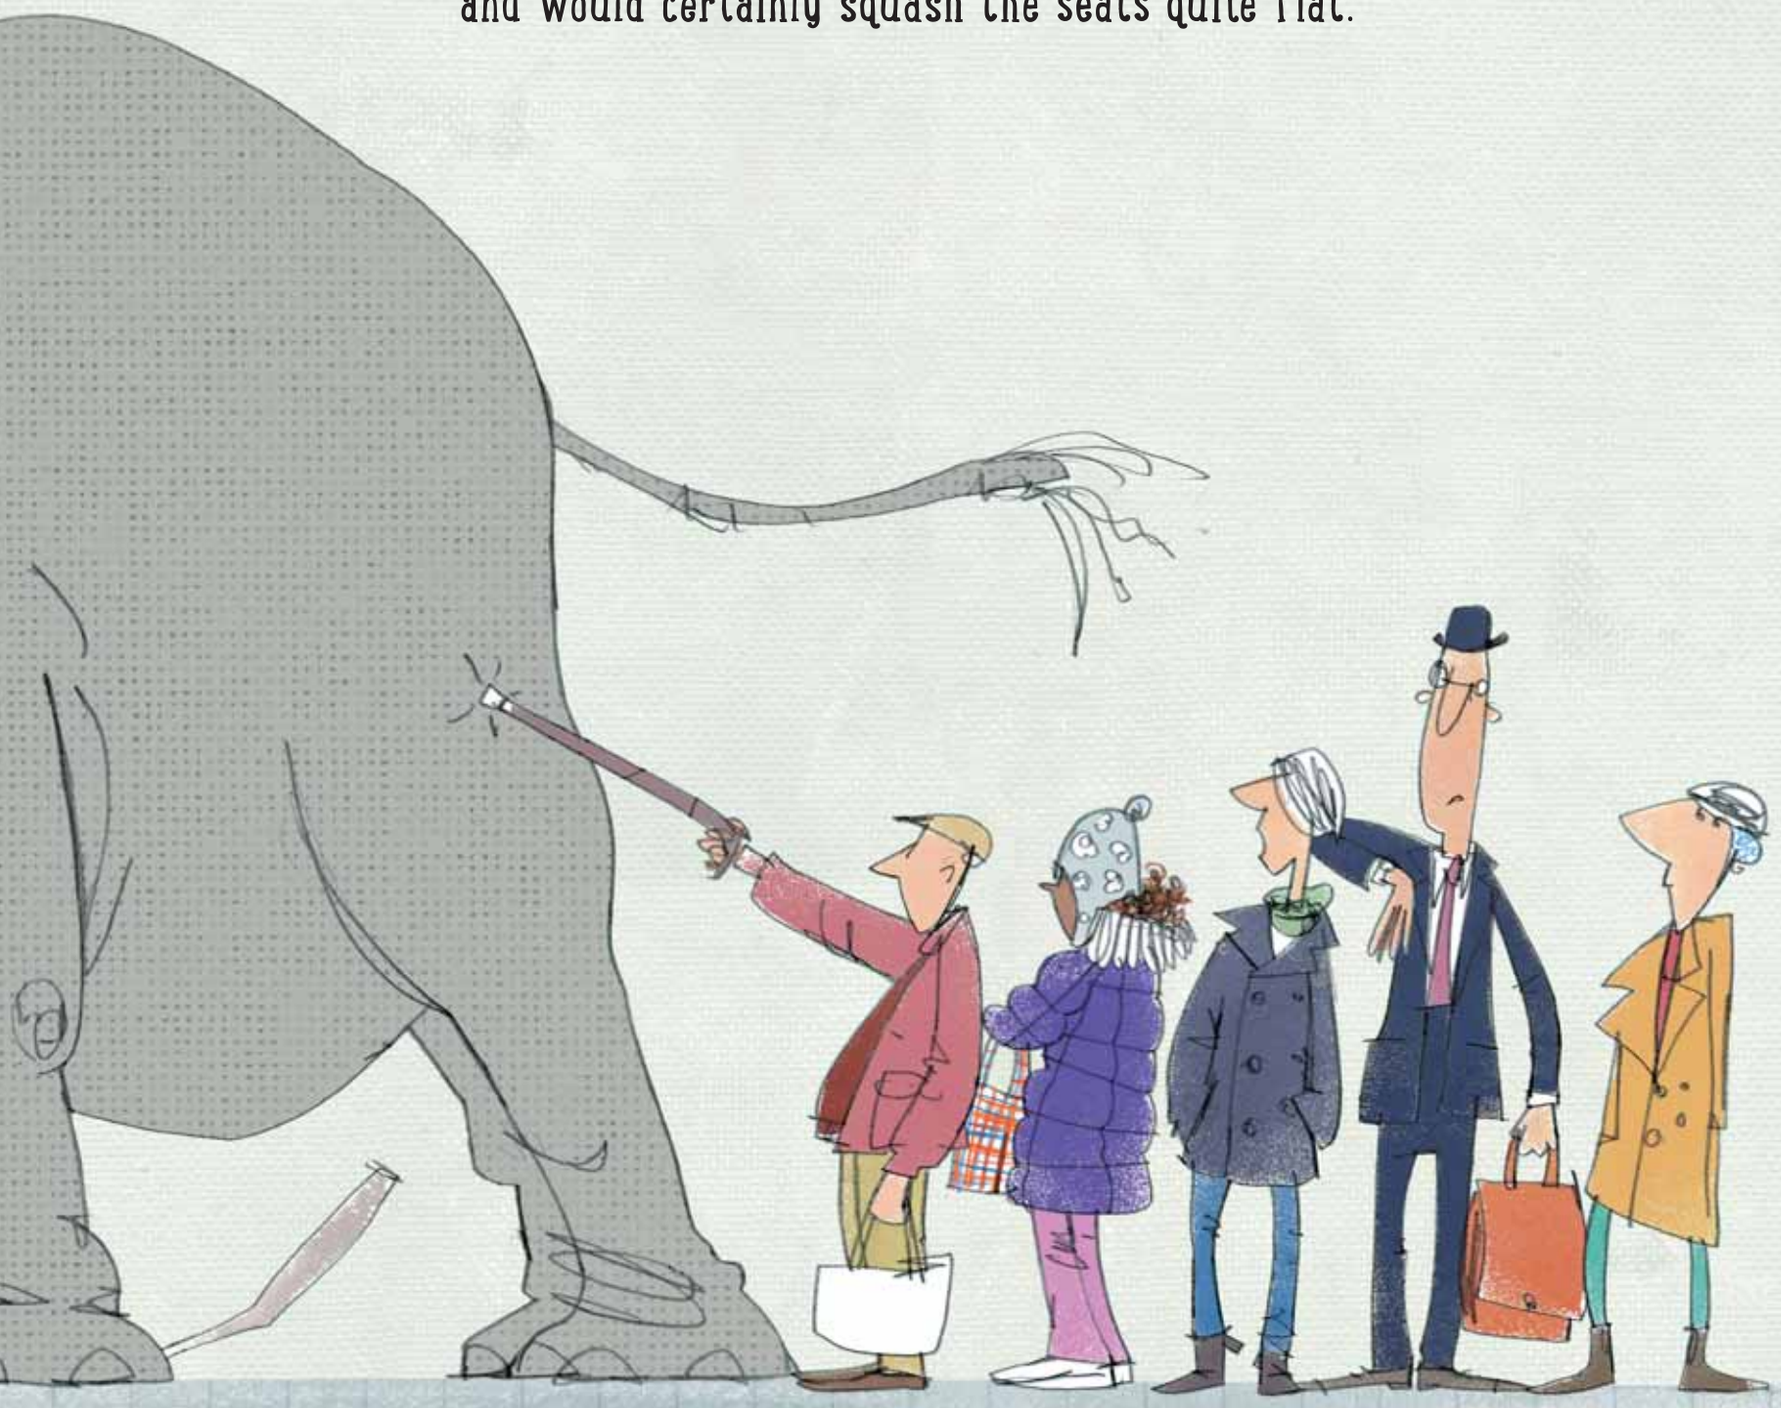

Please print off and read at your leisure.

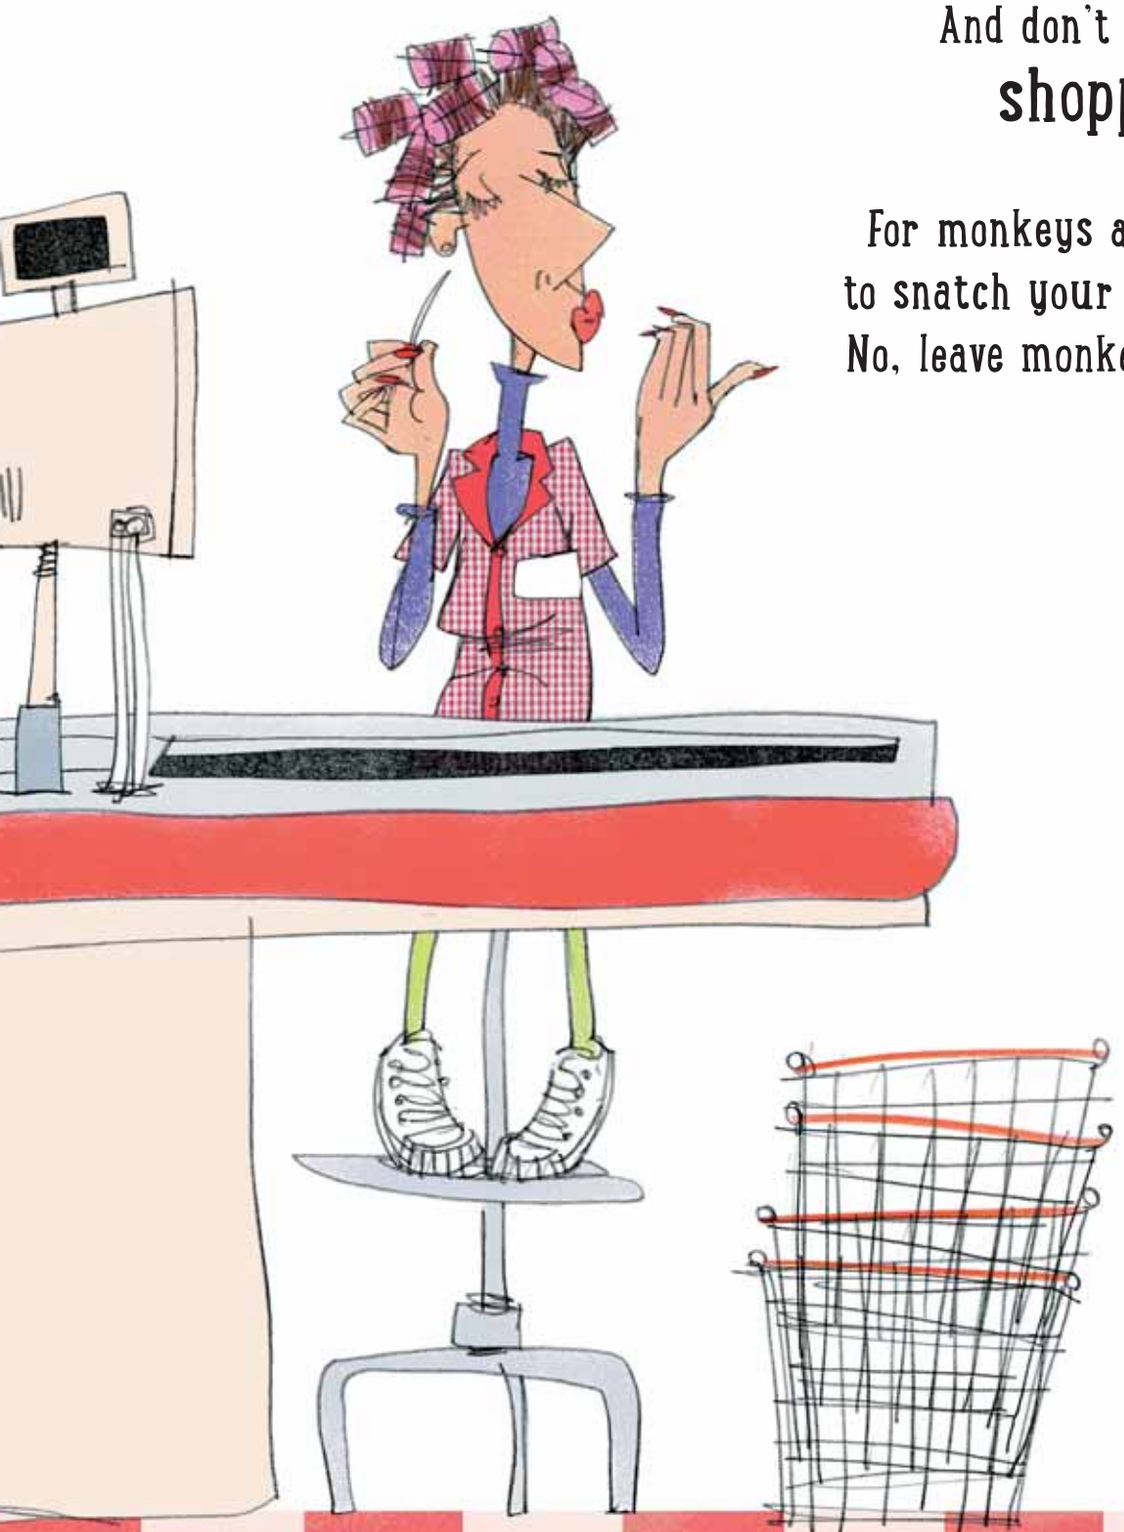

Lovereading4kids.co.uk

HYDE PARK
OXFORD CIRCUS
BAKER STREET
29
LONDON ZOO

You can't take an elephant on the bus . . .

It would simply cause a terrible fuss!
Elephants' bottoms are heavy and fat,
and would certainly squash the seats quite flat.

And don't sit a monkey in a shopping trolley . . .

For monkeys are naughty and find it jolly to snatch your shopping and chuck it about.
No, leave monkey at home when you go out.

Nor should a tiger travel by train . . .
Think of the panic. Think of the pain.
Tigers are built to spring and to leap.
Think of the passengers half-asleep.