“We’re doing a big beach clean today, Fender,”
said Dan. “There’s so much rubbish on the sand that I’ve asked lots of friends to come and help.”

Scamp raced Fender down the track.

“Well done everyone!” said Dan, as he piled the bags up on Fender’s roof rack.

“... 8, 9, 10!” counted Ellie.

“I think we deserve some cakes!”
said Dan’s mum.

But Fender was worried.

A little seal had wriggled under his chassis and no one had noticed her.
