Don't Pick Your Nose, Pinocchio!

Written by Steve Smallman

QED

Geppetto was a carpenter.
He had no family and was very lonely. He decided to make himself a wooden puppet boy and pretend that it was his son.
The puppet was very realistic. It even had nostrils!
Geppetto called him Pinocchio.

Geppetto talked to Pinocchio all the time.

But Pinocchio couldn't talk back.

Geppetto got some very strange looks
when people saw them out together.

Then one day,
a kind-hearted fairy waved her wand and...
POOOOOOF!
...Pinocchio came to life!

"Be a good son to Geppetto,"
the fairy told him.
"Don't tell lies,
don't pick your nose
and one day you'll be a real boy!"

Pinocchio tried very hard to be good, but he couldn't resist sticking his finger up his nose and rummaging about.
He pulled out little wooden bogies and flicked them across the floor.
Geppetto slipped on them and fell with a bump!
"Pinocchio!" he shouted.
"Have you been picking your nose?"

"No, Father," said Pinocchio and...

...poiiiiing his nose suddenly grew!

"That's what happens
when you tell a lie!"
said Geppetto.

"Pinocchio, have you been picking your nose?"
asked Geppetto again.

"Er... yes, Father,"

said Pinocchio and his nose shrank back to normal.

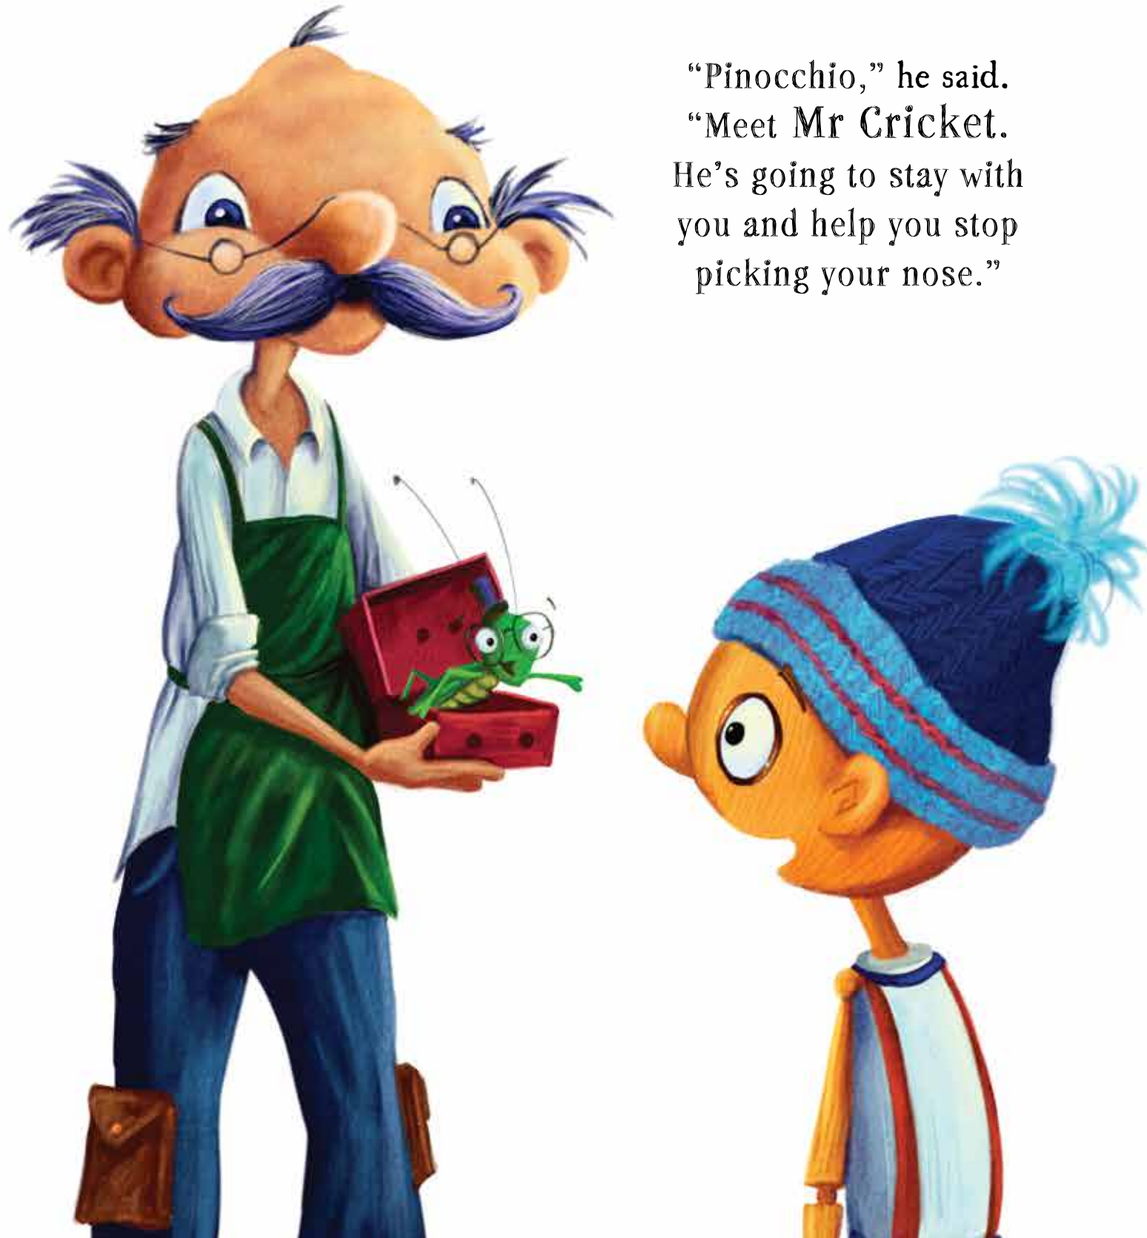
One day Pinocchio was playing under the kitchen table.
"Are you picking your nose, Pinocchio?" called Geppetto.
"No, Father!" called Pinocchio.
Poiiiiing!
Pinocchio still had his finger stuck up his nostril when his nose grew. It grew so quickly that his arm came off, and shot across the room!

Geppetto mended Pinocchio's arm,
then he fetched a little box
and opened it up.



"Pinocchio," he said.
"Meet Mr Cricket.
He's going to stay with you and help you stop picking your nose."

Pinocchio's nose
started to tickle
but as he lifted up his finger Mr Cricket hopped onto
it and shouted,

"DON'T PICK
YOUR NOSE, PINOCCHIO!"

So he didn't!

Then Mr Cricket played games with Pinocchio to keep his fingers busy.

Next steps

Show the children the cover again. When they first saw it, did they think that they already knew the story? How is this story different from the traditional story? Which bits are the same?

Pinocchio's nose grew longer whenever he told a lie. Ask the children to pretend to be Pinocchio. Then ask them some silly questions that they can 'lie' about. For example, are you an elephant? Do you live on the moon? If they say 'yes', make them pretend that their noses are growing, using the 'Poiiiing!' noise.

The kind-hearted fairy told Pinocchio not to pick his nose. Why did she say that? Is it a bad thing to pick your nose? Ask the children if they ever pick their noses. Mr Cricket tried hard to help Pinocchio to stop picking his nose. What did he do?

What happened when Mr Cricket hopped onto Pinocchio's finger too late? How did Pinocchio get Mr Cricket out of his nose? What did that teach Pinocchio?

Ask the children to draw a picture of Pinocchio's face and help them to cut a slot where the nose should be. Draw a very long nose on another piece of paper, cut it out, push it through the slot and watch Pinocchio's nose grow!
