I spy with my creepy eyes...

1. Mantis shrimp

This 30 cm shrimp has better eyesight than any other animal.

2. Giant squid

Most animals' eyes are smaller than oranges. But a giant squid's eye is as big as your head.

3. Dragonfly

Dragonflies section off what they see in a grid. They move around the prey in the same section, then grab it.

4. Goat

Goats have rectangular pupils. This means that they can see a panoramic 320 to 340 degrees. So they can almost see behind themselves.

5. Stargazer

This fish buries itself in sand, eyes staring up. When prey passes by, it throws 50 killer volts of electricity from its eyes to stun the prey.

6. Reindeer

As the days grow darker in winter, reindeer eyes change colours from gold to blue. Creepy, Rudolph!

7. Scallop

Yuck – scallops have 100 eyes around their shells. Remember that the next time you eat some!

8. Tarsier

A tarsier's eyes are each as big as its brain. These enormous eyes make the tarsier an epic hunter – useful, since tarsiers refuse to eat vegetables.

9. Ogre-faced spider

This spider will see you before you see it. It has the best eyesight in the spider world – using all 8 of its eyes.

8 BLOOD-SUCKING BUGS...

...THAT BITE YOU AND LEAVE YOU WITH A DISEASE, A RASH OR AN ITCHY BUMP

- 1. Bedbug
- 2. Mosquito
- 3. Flea
- 4. Tick
- 5. Leech
- 6. Human botfly
- 7. Scab mite
- 8. Tsetse fly

7 parasites that TAKE CONTROL of their hosts

1. Brine shrimp tapeworm
The larva of this tapeworm takes over a brine shrimp's brain, turning the shrimp red and making it swim in groups. This makes it more likely to be eaten by a flamingo.
2. Horsehair worm
The larva of this worm takes over a cricket's brain and makes it leap into water. The now-grown worm wriggles free as the cricket drowns!
3. Tongue-eating isopod
This parasite eats a fish's tongue – and then becomes the tongue! It feeds on the food that the fish catches.
4. Zombie fungus
This fungus invades carpenter ants. It bursts out of the ants' heads, then infects other ants in the colony.

5. Emerald cockroach wasp
This wasp injects chemicals into a cockroach's brain. It steers the roach by the antennae, like they're reins! Then the wasp lays its eggs on the roach. The eggs hatch, and the larvae eat the roach alive. Gross!

6. Ladybird parasite
This wasp lays its egg in a ladybird's belly. The larva takes over the ladybird's brain. The ladybird – the perfect zombie bodyguard – protects the larva until it becomes an adult!
7. Human tapeworm
Tapeworms 9 metres long have been found living in human intestines.

parasites you should learn to love!

1. Good bacteria zap tooth decay in your mouth.
2. Bloodsucking leeches can clear infections.
3. Parasitic wasps can help get rid of farm pests.
4. Some worms that live in human intestines can cure allergies.
5. Other friendly bacteria, in your stomach, wage war on diseases and keep you healthy.
6. Demodex mites sometimes live in your eyelashes – and you don't even know it!
