"Hello, Tree!" shouted Albert.
"I've missed you."
His tree was perfect.
Not too hard, or too soft,
or too slippery, or too prickly.

It was his own special place,
quiet and peaceful…

But what was that noise?

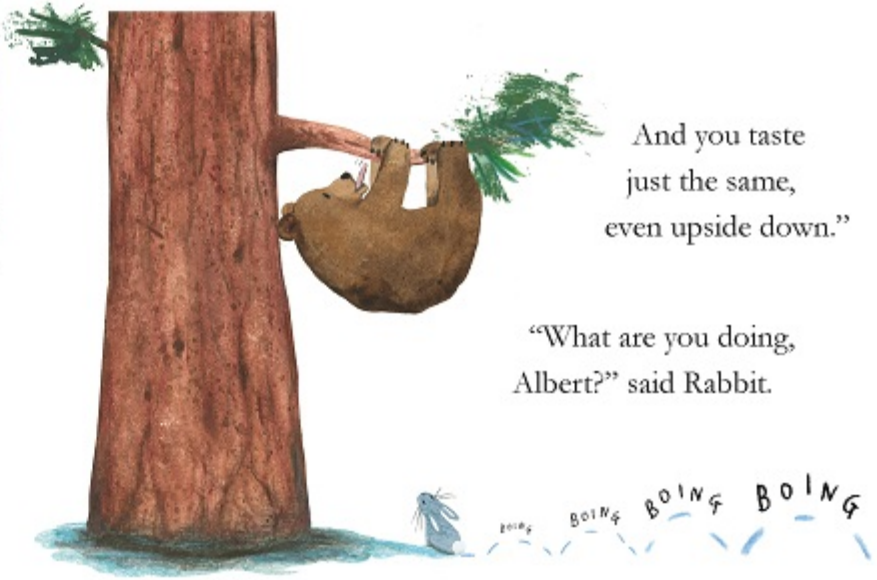

Albert's tree was crying.
"Waa!" wailed the tree.
"What's going on?" said Albert.
"You don't normally make a noise.

You smell the same.

You feel the same.

And you taste
just the same,
even upside down."

"What are you doing, Albert?" said Rabbit.
