Emma Lewis is an illustrator living in London. This is her first book for children.

‘Everyone says I’m going to love the museums...

Museums are big buildings filled with the oldest and oddest things from all around the world.’

Or are they?

A young girl journeys across the city to discover that not all museums are old or odd and that maybe the best museum might be a little closer to home...!

Everyone says
I'm going to love
the museums.

Museums are
big buildings filled
with the oldest and oddest things
from all around the world.

SUPERM

VISIT THE MUSEUMS!

And there are lots of them!

This place
is enormous!

It's the Museum of Ancient Artefacts.

The things inside are thousands of years old and from thousands of miles away and they all ended up here!

Imagine who owned
these pots

and this cup

or these animals.
Just like the ones in my toy box!

In the Museum
of Natural History
there are giant bugs
and peculiar beasts.

Rooms of strange birds
I've never seen before…
