
"It's very nearly Easter,"
Bunny said to his friend, Chick.
They were working through their list
And checking jobs off with a tick.
"Chocolate bunnies – tick!" said Chick.
"And chocolate eggs all packed."
"Our best eggs ever!" Bunny said.
"All neatly wrapped and stacked."

Then over moonlit fields
The Easter Bunny took his load,
And started his deliveries
With tiny Mouse and Toad.

Each beaver, bear and badger
Had a chocolate egg or treat.
Bunny made sure every creature
Would wake up to something sweet.

Chick gazed out of her window
And she clapped her wings with glee.
"We've worked so hard," she chirruped.
"I can't wait for them to see!"

Then, early in the morning,
Chick was woken by a cheer:
"Hurray for Easter Bunny!
He brings chocolate every year!"

The woodland creatures cried with joy,

"It's Bunny's best year yet!"

"But I did half the work," sniffed Chick.
"Did everyone forget?"
