Little People, BIG DREAMS

AGATHA CHRISTIE

Written by
Mª Isabel Sánchez Vegara

Illustrated by
Elisa Munsó

Translated by Raquel Plitt

Frances Lincoln
Children's Books

When Agatha was young, she and her mother read a book together every afternoon. Agatha always had a better idea for how the story should end!

In bed, Agatha went on reading until she fell asleep. Detective novels were her favourite.

But then a war started, and Agatha had to put her books aside. She worked in a hospital helping wounded soldiers.