Best Lowly Worm Book Ever!

HarperCollins Children's Books

Good Morning, Lowly!

I am a worm. My name is Lowly Worm.

I get up in the morning
and wash my face and foot.

It's a little bit difficult,
but I can dress myself.

Everyone helps to make breakfast at the Cat family house where I live.

After breakfast, Huckle, Sally and I clear the table.

Father Cat washes the dishes.

We make our beds.

Hey!
Where is Lowly?

We tidy our rooms and hang up our clothes.

Then we say goodbye to Mother Cat,
and go to the school bus stop.

Off to School

We are careful crossing the road.
We look both ways.

We walk and do not run.

We say "Good morning" to the school bus driver.

We sit quietly in our seats on the way to school. Arthur shows me his new toy police car.

I bring an apple to Miss
Honey, the schoolteacher.

Huckle draws a picture of me.

I help Sally to string beads.

I show and tell a story
to my classmates.

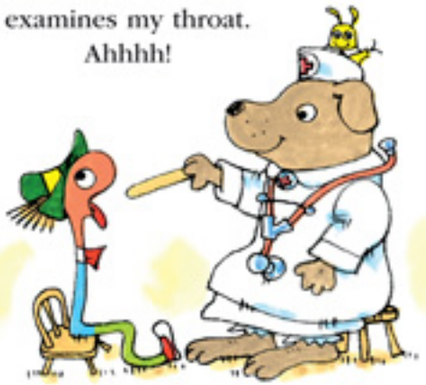

I empty the wastebasket.

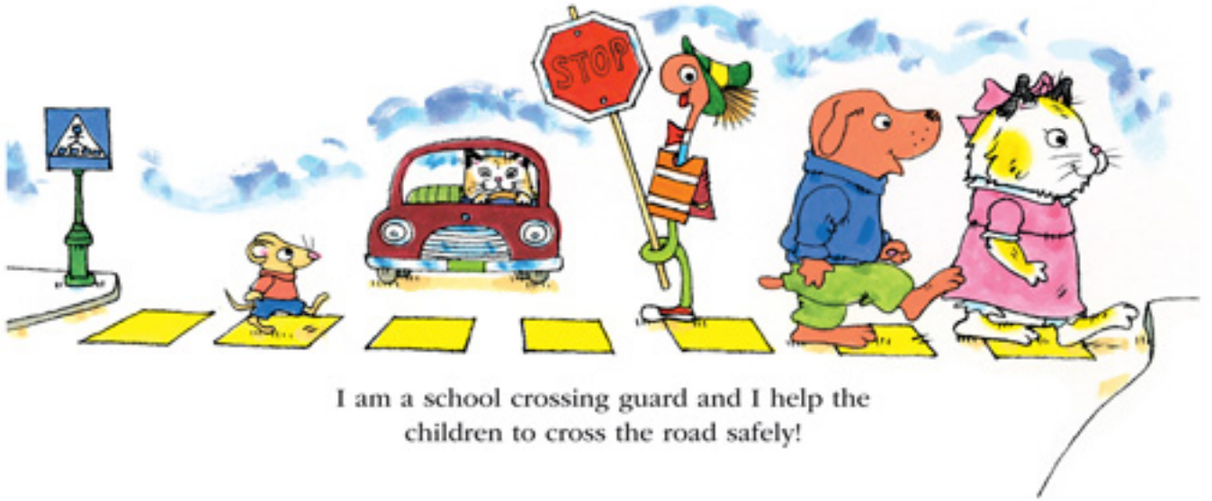

My, it is windy!

I write on the board.

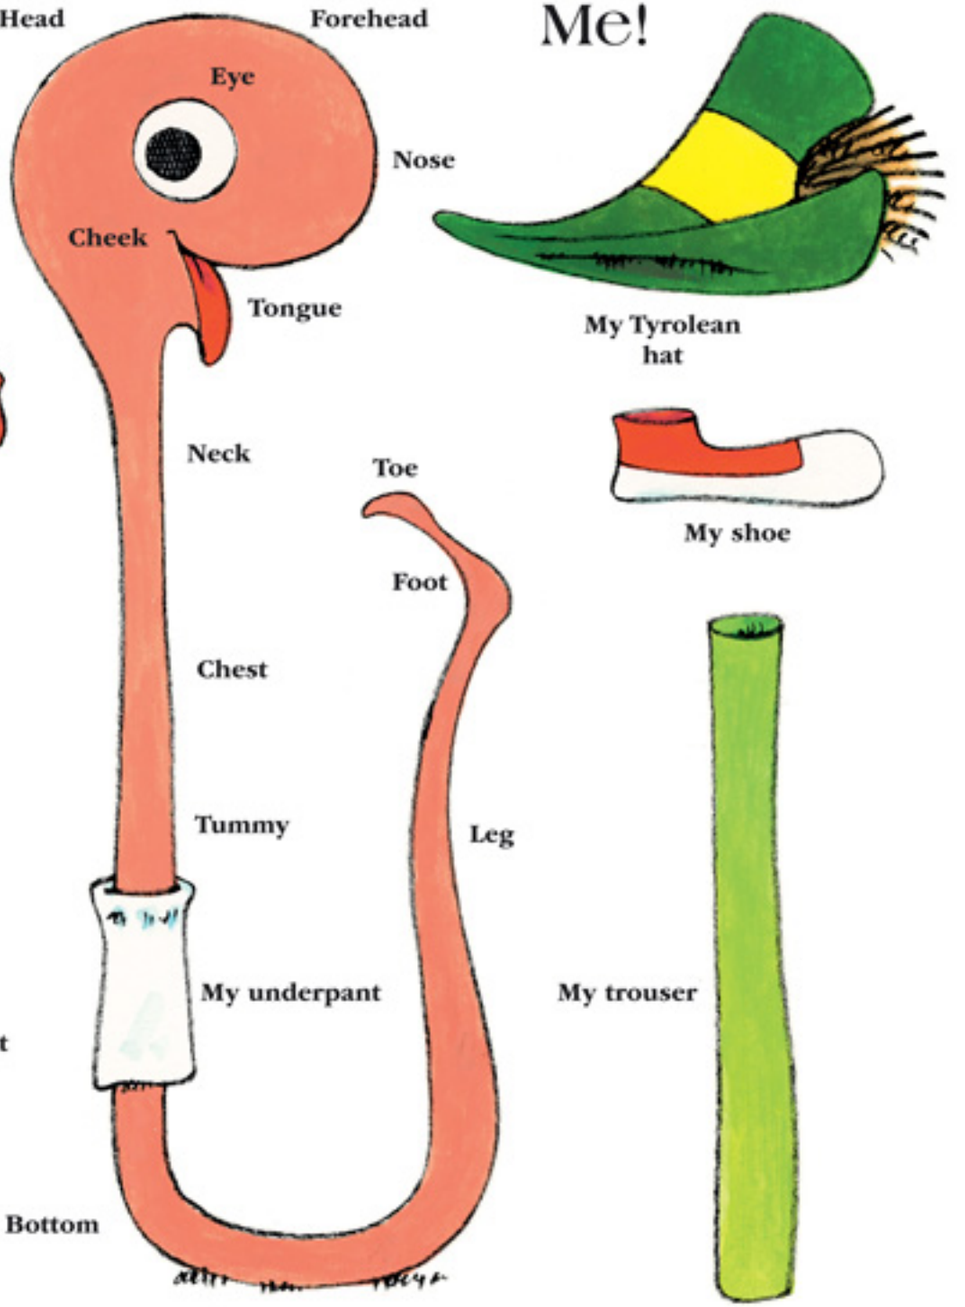

The school doctor examines my throat. Ahhhh!

I am a school crossing guard and I help the children to cross the road safely!

This is Me!

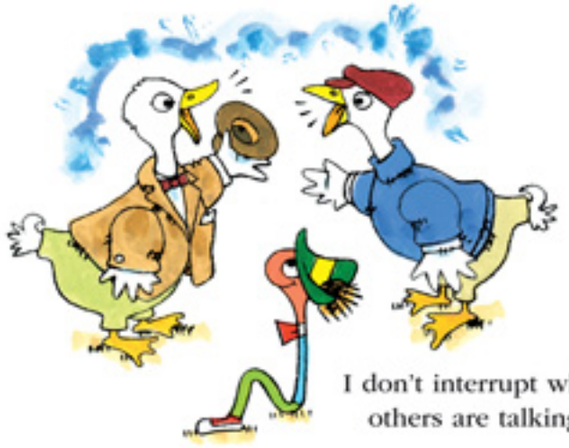

Lowly's Good Manners

Everyone should have good manners.

When something is given to me I say "Thank you".

I don't interrupt when others are talking.

I am a good helper. I help tie shoelaces.

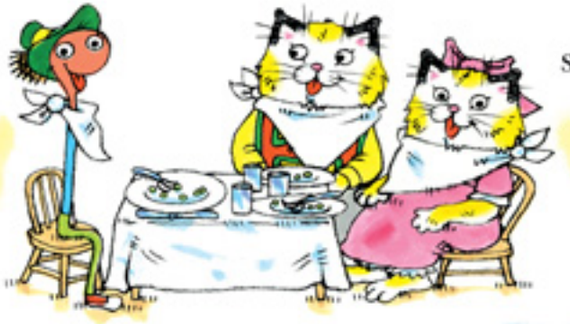

When I want something I say "Please".

I hold the door open for others.

I help do the dishes.

I sit up straight at the table. Sometimes I forget to take off my hat.

I always take my turn.

I don't push or shove others.

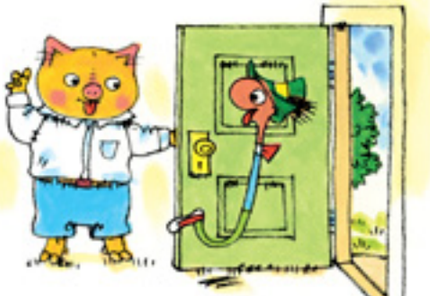

I share my things.

I never fight, for that is very bad manners.

I read stories to younger children.

When I leave after a visit to someone else's house I always say "Thank you for a very nice time".
