

Wherever you are in the world right now,
I'm a very long way away.
I'm not even on the same planet as you.

I'm a Mars rover. A rover is a moving robot, built to explore far-off places—places too far away or dangerous for humans to visit.
How did I get here? Why was I sent?
This is my story.