The GARDEN of HOPE

Isabel Otter Katie Rewse

Things had changed since Mum had been gone.
The house was untidy.
Maya, Dad and Pip were a bit of a mess.

And the garden had become wild and overgrown.

Maya started in the potting shed.
It was full of dust and cobwebs but she soon found what she needed.

Next, she began to busily pull up weeds. The garden had been unloved for a long time and the weeds had tangled themselves over everything!

Things had changed since Mum had been gone.
The house was still untidy.
Maya, Dad and Pip were still rather a mess.

But something felt different...
For the first time in a long while, there was hope.

Dad and Maya looked out at their beautiful garden and shared a smile.
