"Let's get a pet," said Jack one day.
"I promise I'll look after it."
"If you like, dear," replied his mother absent-mindedly.
"What pet should we get?"

Jack thought about it for a little while.
"I think we should get an elephant," he announced.
"I could ride it to school."

"An elephant would be nice, dear," said Mum,
"but not very practical.
How would we take it on holiday?"
