BRICKS

The House a Greedy Pig Built

Katie Cotton Tor Freeman

Andersen Press

In a town there was a pig who'd come into some gold.
He had a truck and lots of clothes,
and owned some land (marked sold).

Pig thought the view was rather nice and had a plan in mind.
So, one day, he drove to town,
to see who he could find.

He found a cat whose job was roofs.

For bricks he found a pup.

A hen said, “I can do the wood.”

“Good,” said Pig.
“Now listen up!”

“I want a home that’s very grand,
that’s big and tall and fine.
I’ll give you all four of these coins to build this house of mine.”
