WHILE YOU'RE SLEEPING

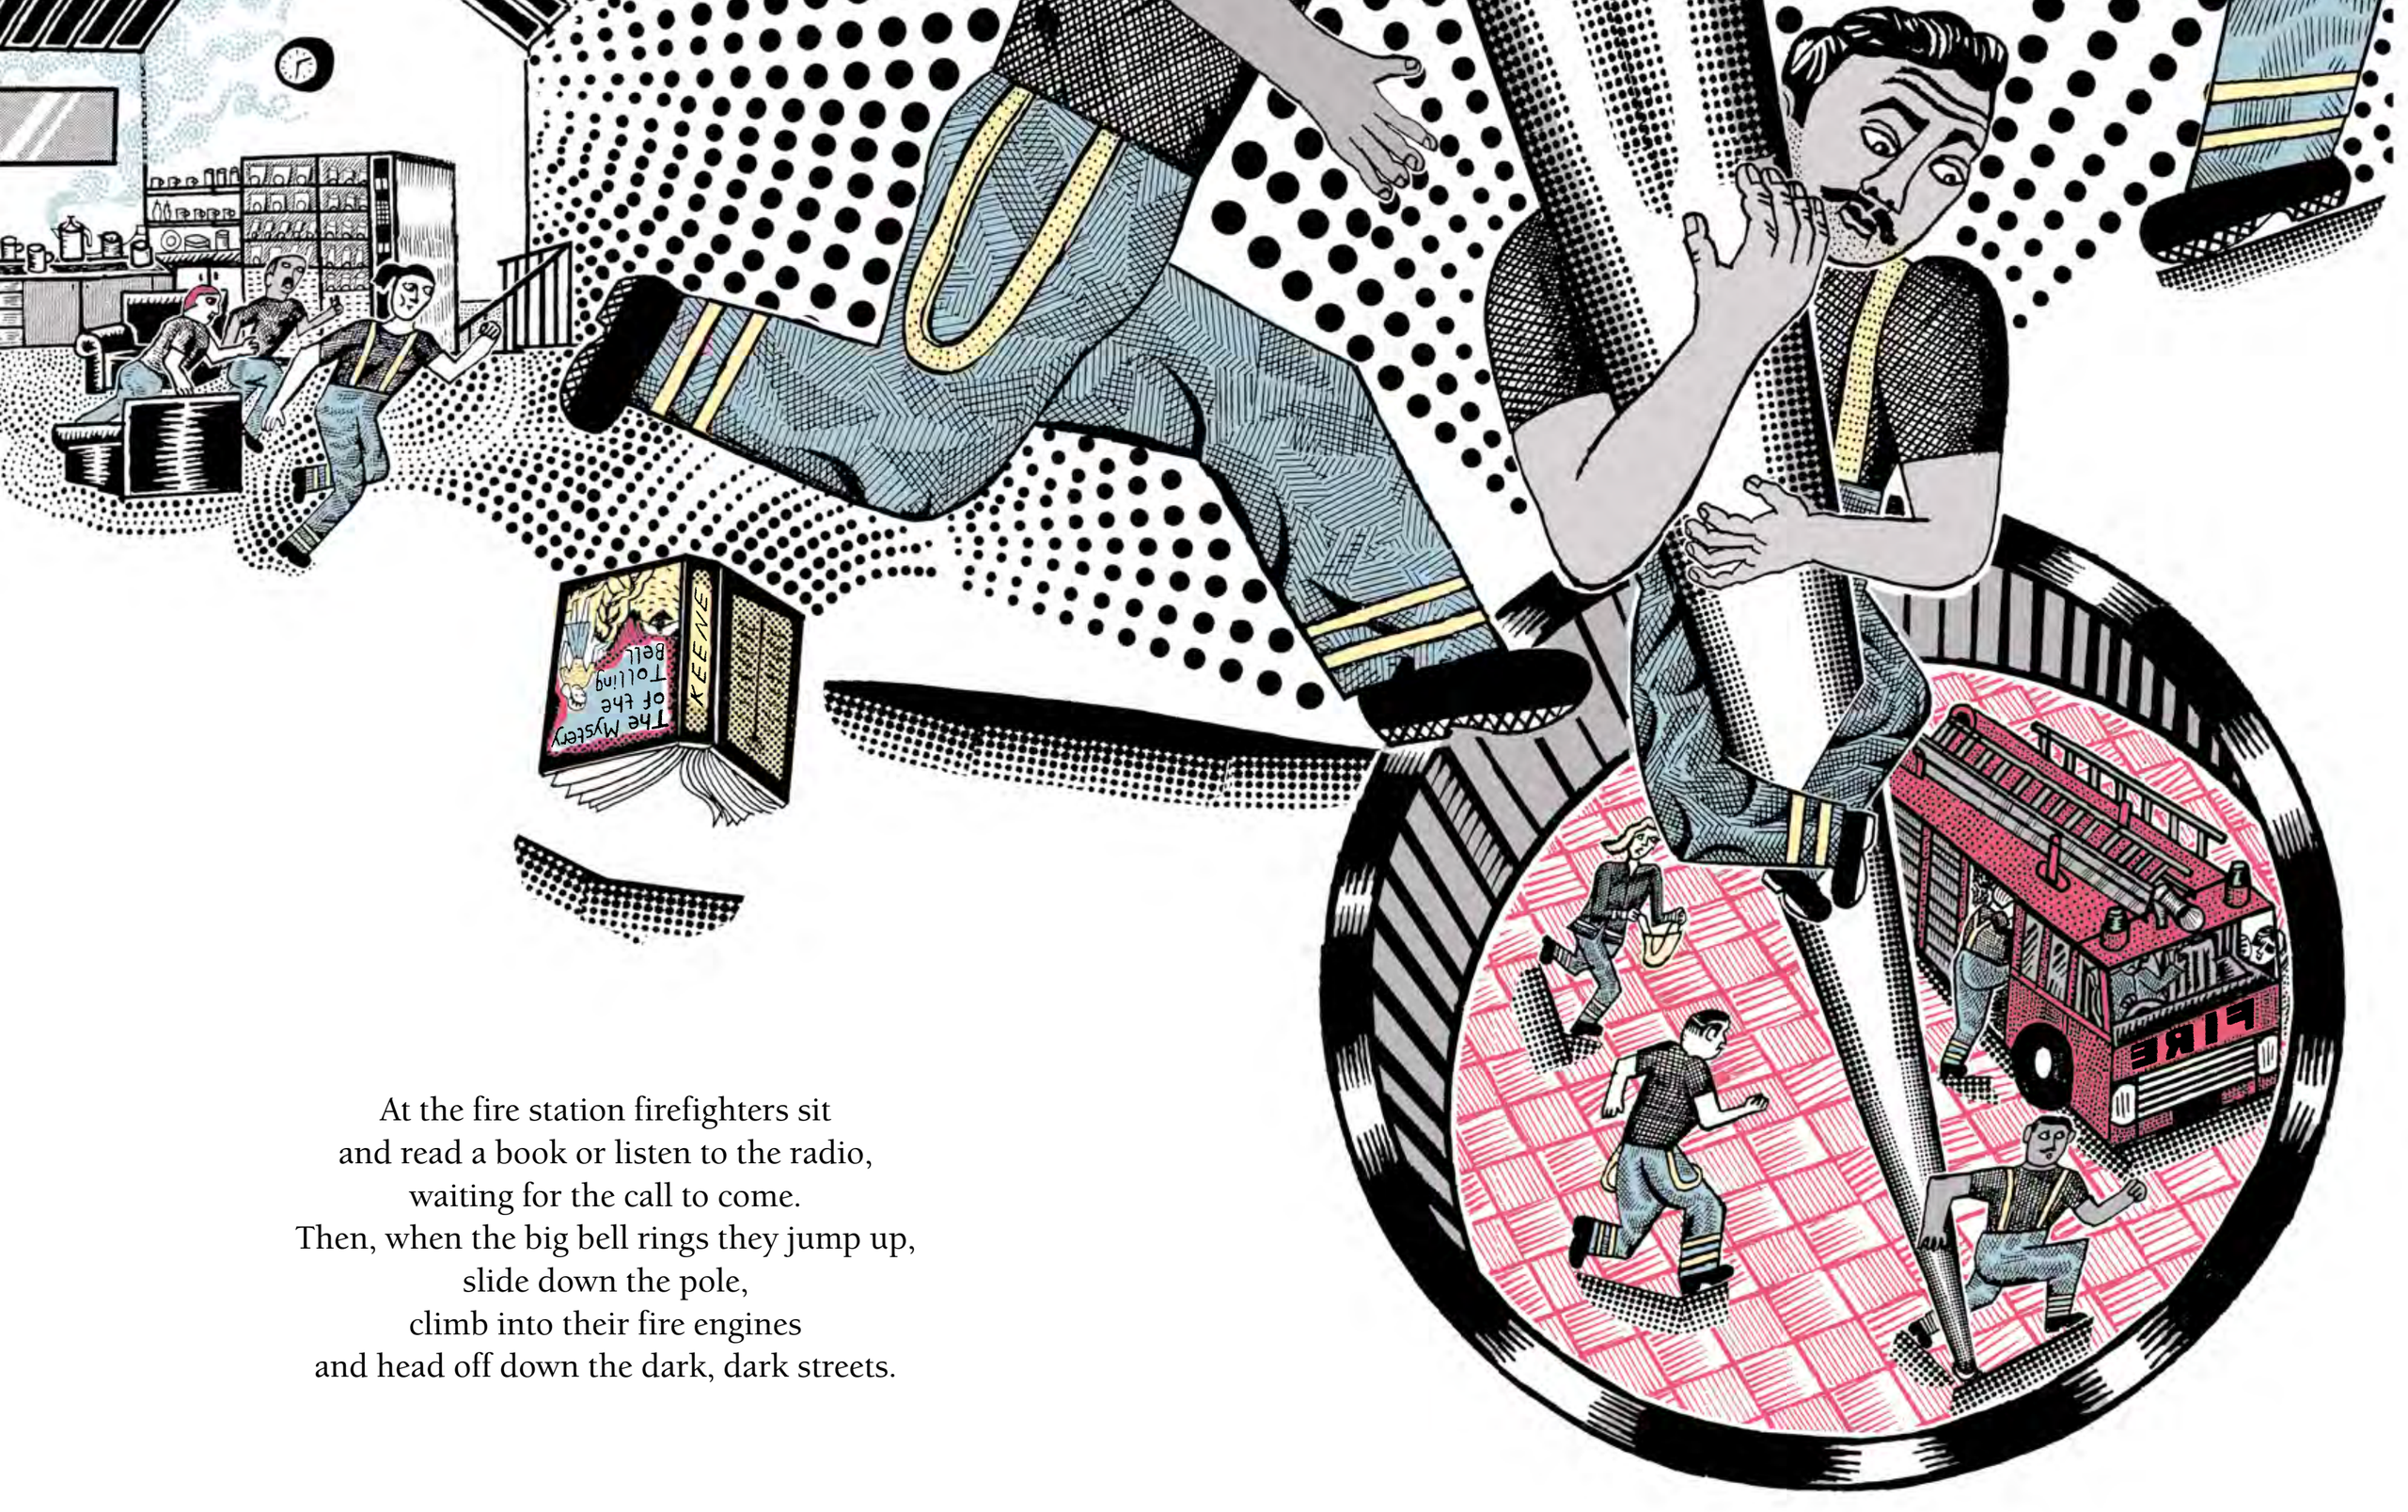

By Mick Jackson
& John Broadley

Oh, it's good to be snug, deep under the covers,
good to slowly drift off to sleep.
But when you're all tucked up and dreaming other people are wide-awake...

Just think of all those lorries driving through the night packed with fruit... flowers... frozen sausages.

At the fire station firefighters sit and read a book or listen to the radio, waiting for the call to come.
Then, when the big bell rings they jump up, slide down the pole, climb into their fire engines and head off down the dark, dark streets.

the fire station
and hospital,

the shops,

Then, just think of all the people hard at work, think of the night-time animals,

the all-night cafés.
