

The hollow was perfect. Nook could watch the others play but still feel safe, pressed against the back of the tree.