Lisa Moss & Dr Thomas Bernard

SUPERQUESTERS

and the Case of the Missing Memory

Illustrated by Amy Willcox

Copyright © 2022 by QuestFriendz
First published in 2022 by QuestFriendz
All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in or introduced into a retrieval system or transmitted in any form or by any means (electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording or otherwise) without the prior written permission of the copyright owner.
Printed in Malaysia.

MIX
Paper from responsible sources
FSC® C017888

1 3 5 7 9 10 8 6 4 2

Written by Lisa Moss and Dr Thomas Bernard; designed and art directed by Sophie Stericker.
A special thank you to all contributors who helped us along the way.
www.questfriendz.com

QuestFriendz

In the robotics lab, the friends set about troubleshooting what was wrong with B-bot, while Amelia drone landed next to all the cool components on the bench. They opened him up and looked at his hardware. They looked at his software programs too, but they couldn't work out how to fix him.

Bea sighed as the light on B-bot's head flashed on and off.

There was a moment's silence, then Leo said, 'Do you think we should try and… dream the answer?'

The friends shared a look, their eyes glinting as they remembered their adventures in Questland.

'Let's do it!' said Bea.

So when they were sure no one was looking, they all joined hands and closed their eyes and thought hard about the difficult problem of how to fix B-bot.

A moment later…

‘Close your eyes, squeeze them tight...

stars will light the way so bright,’

said a voice that seemed to be both inside their heads and also swirling all around them.

And when they opened their eyes again…

…they weren't in the waking world any more.

And they weren't QUITE their normal selves either.

'Welcome back, SuperQuesters – Lillicorn, Bea Bumble and Leo Zoom!' said the Queen of Questland. 'Thank goodness you're here… we need your help!'

'Of course,' said Lillicorn, with a flick of her unicorn ponytail, 'what seems to be the problem?'

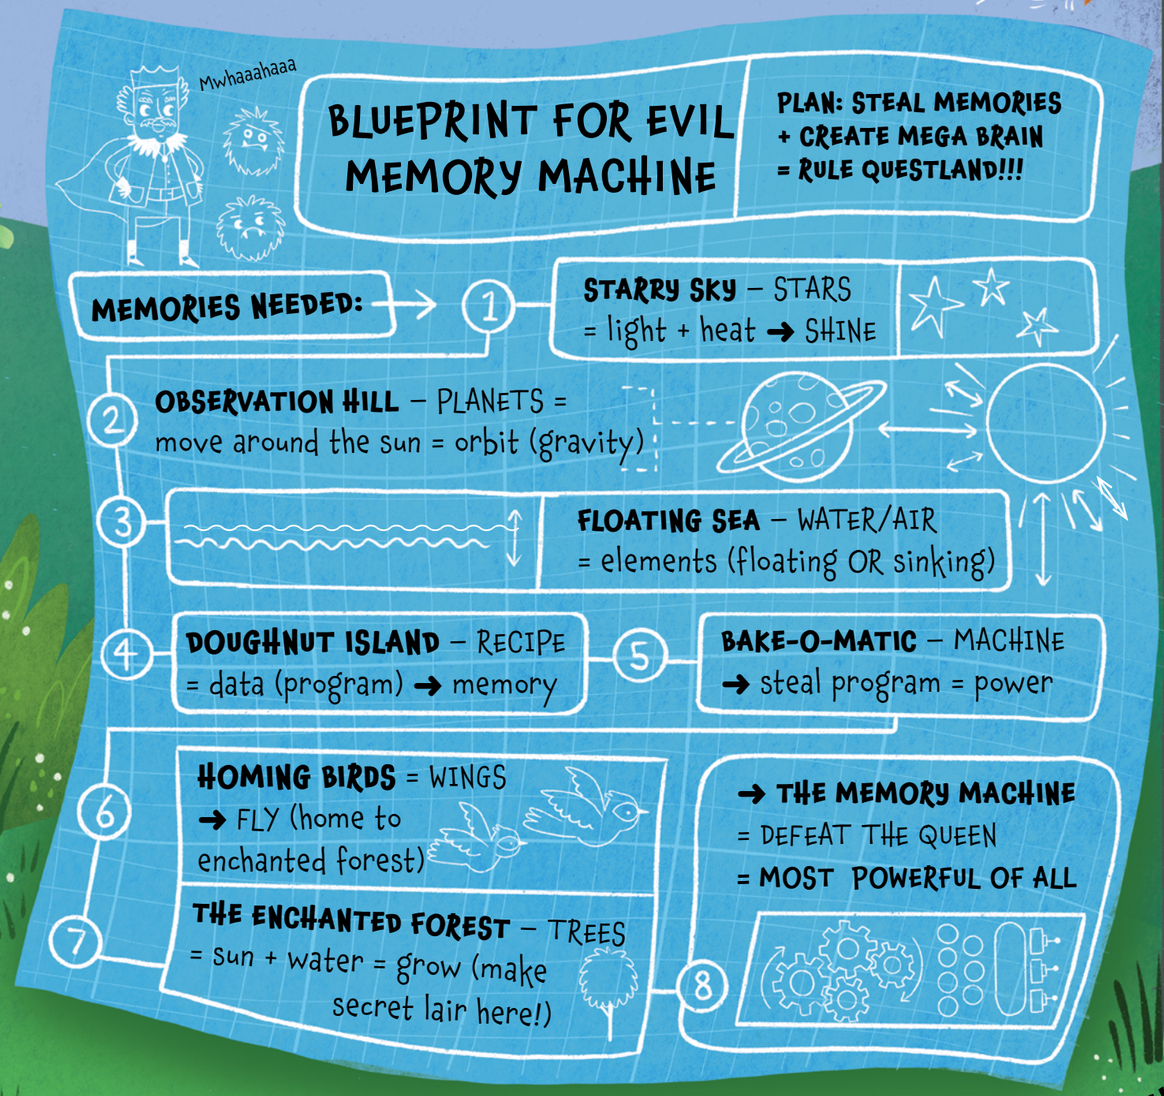

'A problem?' said the queen, looking startled. 'Oh dear. Can I help at all?'

The three friends blinked. 'Um,' said Leo Zoom, 'I think it was you that wanted help…'

'Yes, yes, you're quite right!' said the queen. 'The trouble is, I keep forgetting… as does everyone else in Questland, and everyTHING else too, it seems. I'm afraid Lord Grumble and his Snapettes are up to their old tricks again… I found this in his castle…'

'Leave it to us,' said Bea Bumble.

'Yes, I suppose I should be off too,' said the queen. 'There was something I was supposed to be doing, I just can't quite remember…'

QUEST 2:
Observation Hill

As the friends walked on, their path began to climb steeply upwards. The stars were shining brightly now, which helped them see their way. At the top of the hill, they were surprised to find a telescope.

'This must be Observation Hill!' said Bea Bumble, peering into the telescope. 'Wow – you can see the solar system!'

'Let me look, please, Bea!' said Leo Zoom, who loved space.

Right away Leo noticed something strange. 'The planets aren't moving as they're supposed to. They should be orbiting around the sun… but they're just wobbling around on the spot, as if they don't know what to do!'

Lillicorn frowned. 'Do you think they've forgotten too?'

To remind the planets to orbit the sun, use the arrow stickers to show where the planets are in relation to the sun.

WATCH OUT – The two arrows already placed may need to be changed!

When you've finished, stick a planet sticker on your Reward Chart