

A full moon is visible in the upper left corner of the sky, which is filled with stars and soft, wispy clouds. The moon's light creates a bright, shimmering reflection on the calm surface of the water below. The overall color palette is dominated by deep blues, purples, and whites from the moon and stars.

There were special nights when the stars would come out just for them and were reflected on calm waters.

They would float upon the current, peaceful and still.
In these moments, alongside his mother as she gently sang her song, he could not see where things began or ended.

A vibrant aurora borealis (northern lights) is displayed in the sky, showing streaks of green, blue, and purple. The lights appear to be dancing over a dark, silhouetted landscape that includes what looks like a tree on the left. The sky is dark, making the colorful lights stand out prominently.

And he started to understand –
That what matters is not how quickly you travel . . .

but who you travel with.

With the blink of an eye,
he arrived in the world.

