

PRINCESS AMMA lives in a palace full of grown-ups who love her dearly. But every morning there's a BIG PALAVER over a tiny bit of PEE ... and it's making Amma WORRIED. She wishes that she could stop wetting the bed, and that's when Grandma Grace steps in.

This modern fairy tale is for families everywhere who are making the journey to a first dry night and beyond.

EFFUA GLEED

ONCE UPON A BED... in a royal palace, there lived a little princess called Amma.

Princess Amma had an imagination
as big and as wild as her Afro.

EVERY DAY she was ready to battle knights with the queen...

and even hunt for dragons
with Grandma Grace.

look for mermaids with the king...

But every bedtime,
Princess Amma's big imagination meant WORRIES.

Her blankets felt HEAVY,
and the shadows on the walls
looked DARK and scary.
And the worries were all because ...

Princess Amma WETS THE BED.

EVERY MORNING, there was lots to do to sort out the tricky business of the princess and the pee.

The lord of the laundry,

the lady of the linens

and the manager of the mattresses RUSHED and FUSSED all over the palace, swapping soggy sheets
for lovely new scented bedding.

THE QUEEN tried her best to help.
‘Maybe you should sleep closer to the loo?’ she said.

But Amma was not at all sure that a bath
would make a very good bed!

THE KING gave Amma
a sparkly reward chart.

But Amma worried if she would ever have enough dry nights to fill the chart with stickers.
