We saw the cloud of dust first.

Then came the clang, bang and splutter of the old motor.

Aiyasha took charge. She is fifteen years old and twice our age. She knew what was coming.

‘Monica, take the clothes from the line.
Jabu, cover the cooking pot,’ she instructed.

Jacob and I stopped piling wood.

Allan Low has worked with rural communities in Eastern and Southern Africa over a span of forty five years. Eleven years ago Allan setup the charity SHAMBA with his late wife, Anne. SHAMBA works with communities to enable their most disadvantaged children from AIDS affected households gain access to high quality early childhood care and education through their 'Bright Future' preschools. Allan now lives in Wetherby, UK and continues to visit the charity and manage its work

Elizabeth Sparg is an illustrator from Durban, South Africa. She uses gouache and coloured pencil, with digital editing, to create her playful and painterly illustrations. She was selected as one of the winners in the 2021 Picture This! award for, then unpublished, illustrators.

Two wrongs are done to the Bundu Bunch.

One plan could put right both wrongs.

Is it the right thing to do?

Will it work as intended?
