I Could Be Eaten By a Shark

OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS

On a sunny afternoon, whilst splashing by the shore,
Louie saw something completely and utterly terrifying . . .

and refused to go back in the water.

So his grandpa (who was very wise)
took him to the lake instead.

'There are no sharks here,' he told Louie.
'So what do you think? Is this any better?'
Louie shook his head.

From then on, swimming pools made Louie JUMPY...

paddling pools gave him the HEEBIE-JEEBIES...

and even bubble baths made him SUSPICIOUS.

So his grandpa (I told you he was wise), took him to the library so they could learn about sharks.

There are more than 500 species of shark!

Sharks have been around for over 400 million years —this makes them older than dinosaurs!
