Goldilocks
AND THE THREE BEARS

ROBERT SOUTHEY

Once upon a time there were three bears who lived in a cottage in the woods. . . a great big father bear, a middle-sized mother bear and a little, tiny baby bear.

Each of the bears had a bowl for porridge. There was a great big bowl, a middle-sized bowl and a little, tiny bowl.

Each of the bears had a comfortable chair to sit in. There was a great big chair, a middle-sized chair and a little, tiny chair.

And each of the bears had a warm bed to sleep in. There was a great big bed, a middle-sized bed and a little, tiny bed.

Aha! What's this?

SOMEONE HAS BEEN SLEEPING IN MY BED!

Dear me! Didn't he wake her?
No, she's still asleep.

The great big voice of father bear sounded only like far away thunder clouds to Goldilocks, and she slept on.
