the adventure continues

A lot has happened to Tim the Tiny Horse since we last caught up with him. But if you were hoping that maybe he'd got bigger...

then I'm afraid I must disappoint you. Tim is still a very small horse.

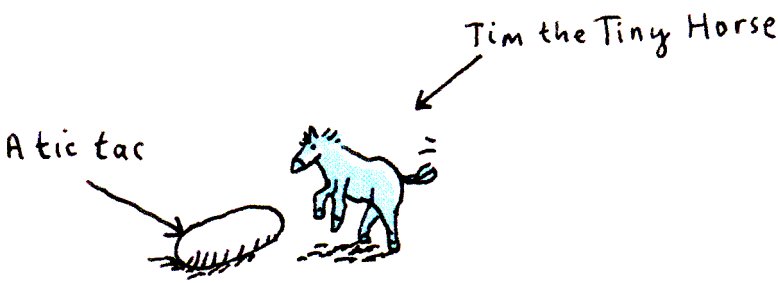

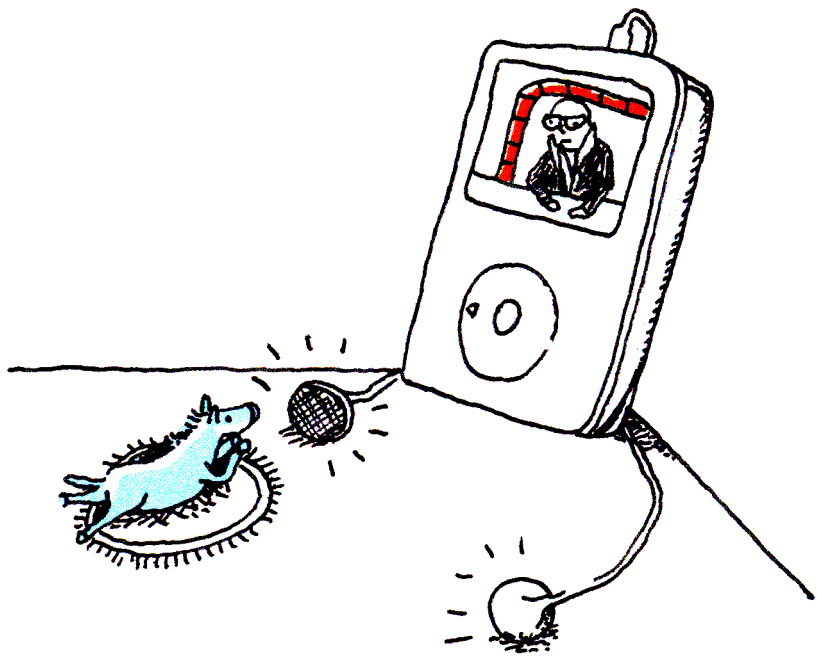

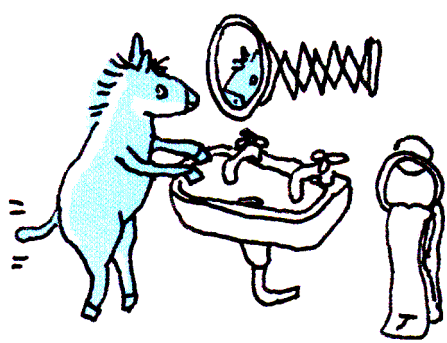

Diagram to show relative size of Tim the Tiny Horse

So small is he in fact that he could use an iPod as his main T.V., with the headphones as speakers (his ears are too small to need a sub-woofer) ... but he doesn't.

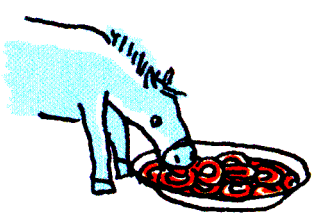

He is so small that he could use an acorn cup as a basin, but chooses not to.

As he doesn't really go for that Rustic Look.

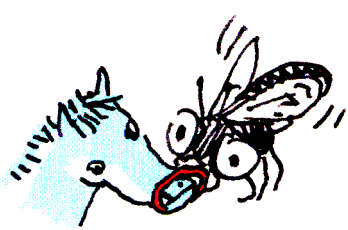

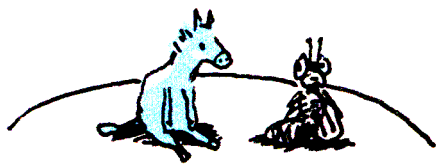

He is so small that on one occasion, whilst eating some spaghetti hoops...

he got one caught over his nose... and it acted... as a muzzle!

He had to get his best friend (who is a fly) to bite it off.

Which was a little embarrassing for both of them.
