

Helping your children choose books they will love

Lovereading4kids.co.uk is a book website created for parents and children to make choosing books easy and fun

Opening extract from Iris and Isaac

Written by Catherine Rayner

Published by Little Tiger Press

All Text is Copyright © of the Author and/or Illustrator

Please print off and read at your leisure.

A polar bear is shown from the chest up, looking upwards towards the sky. The sky is a deep purple and blue, with the Northern Lights (Aurora Borealis) visible as colorful, swirling bands of green, yellow, and blue light. The ground below is a mix of dark purple and reddish-brown hues, suggesting a snowy or icy landscape at night. The overall mood is contemplative and serene.

Isaac was plodding sadly and he saw the Northern Lights flicker and swirl.

"Iris adores the lights," he thought to himself.

"I wish she was here to see them too."