"It's going to be a grand summer, Sidney," said Granny. "I think we'll do a bit of work in the vegetable patch."
Sidney put on his wellington boots.

"You weed, I'll feed," said Gran, as she spread pongy manure around the soil.

"Eugh! What's this, Granny?" said Sidney. "It looks like Martian food!"

"Oooh! That's broccoli young Sid, and it will put muscles where you didn't know you had them," said Granny.

One day they even set up a stall outside the cottage to sell all the extra fruit and veg they couldn't eat. They sold out in no time at all.

"I've just had a smashing idea, Sid," Granny said.
But when Sidney asked what it was, Gran just smiled. "Wait and see," she said.
