at Natalie and smiled, glad to see that her friend seemed to be having fun.

The dance ended to more applause. As the young animals lined up for the Grand Procession, Honey noticed that darkness was spreading right across the sky. Now the lanterns shone out more strongly, setting the strings of berries gleaming.

Mr Hazelgrove led the Grand Procession. Round Foxglove Hollow they walked, then along the path leading to the Babbling Brook. Honey saw Natalie's mum and dad join on behind them. Her parents were with them, and Evie's and Florence's weren't far behind.

The path to the raft was lit by flickering candlelight that created deliciously mysterious shadows.

"I'm so excited," whispered Honey, as they spotted Mr Willowherb ahead, waiting on his raft. It was decked with colourful flowers and sprays of leaves.
