THE CONQUERORS

David McKee

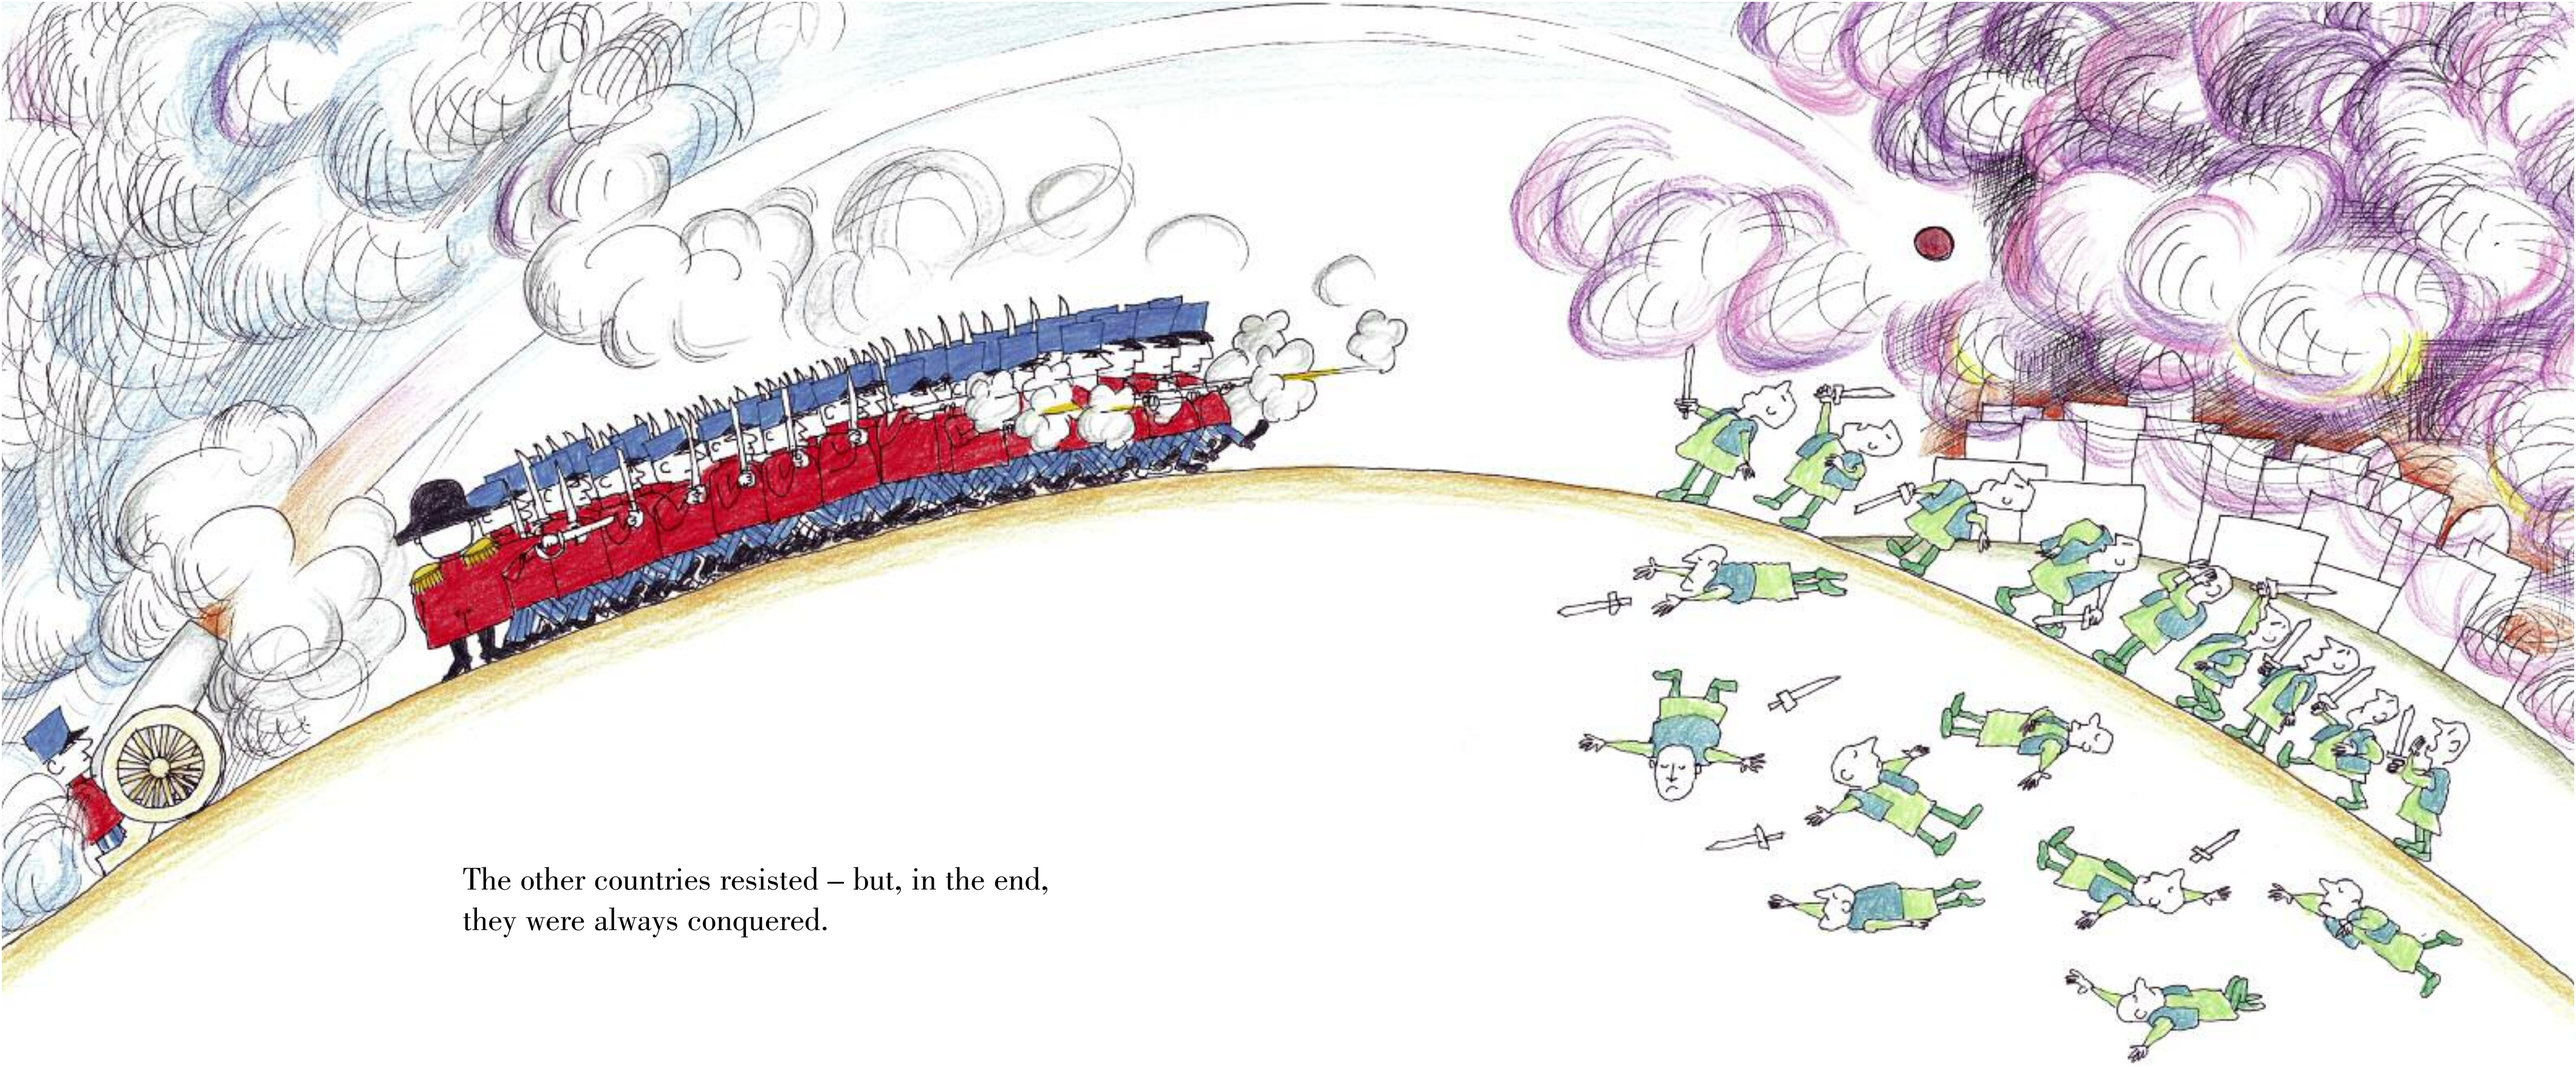

ANDERSEN PRESS

There was once a large country that was ruled by a General.
The people believed that their way of life was the best.
They had a very strong army, and they had the cannon.

From time to time the General would take his army and attack a nearby country.
"It's for their own good," he said. "So they can be like us."

The other countries resisted – but, in the end, they were always conquered.
