More and More ANT and BEE
is my third alphabetical story written for shared reading.

If a parent or older child reads the black words then young children can join in the storytelling by calling out the 3-letter, 4-letter and 5-letter words printed in red. I have illustrated each 5-letter word as it is introduced.

More and More ANT and BEE means more and more red words! Together with the new 5-letter words are the 3-letter and 4-letter words from my first two ANT and BEE stories.

One day a mother and father asked Ant and Bee and Kind Dog to play with their small girl while they went away to buy her a secret new toy.

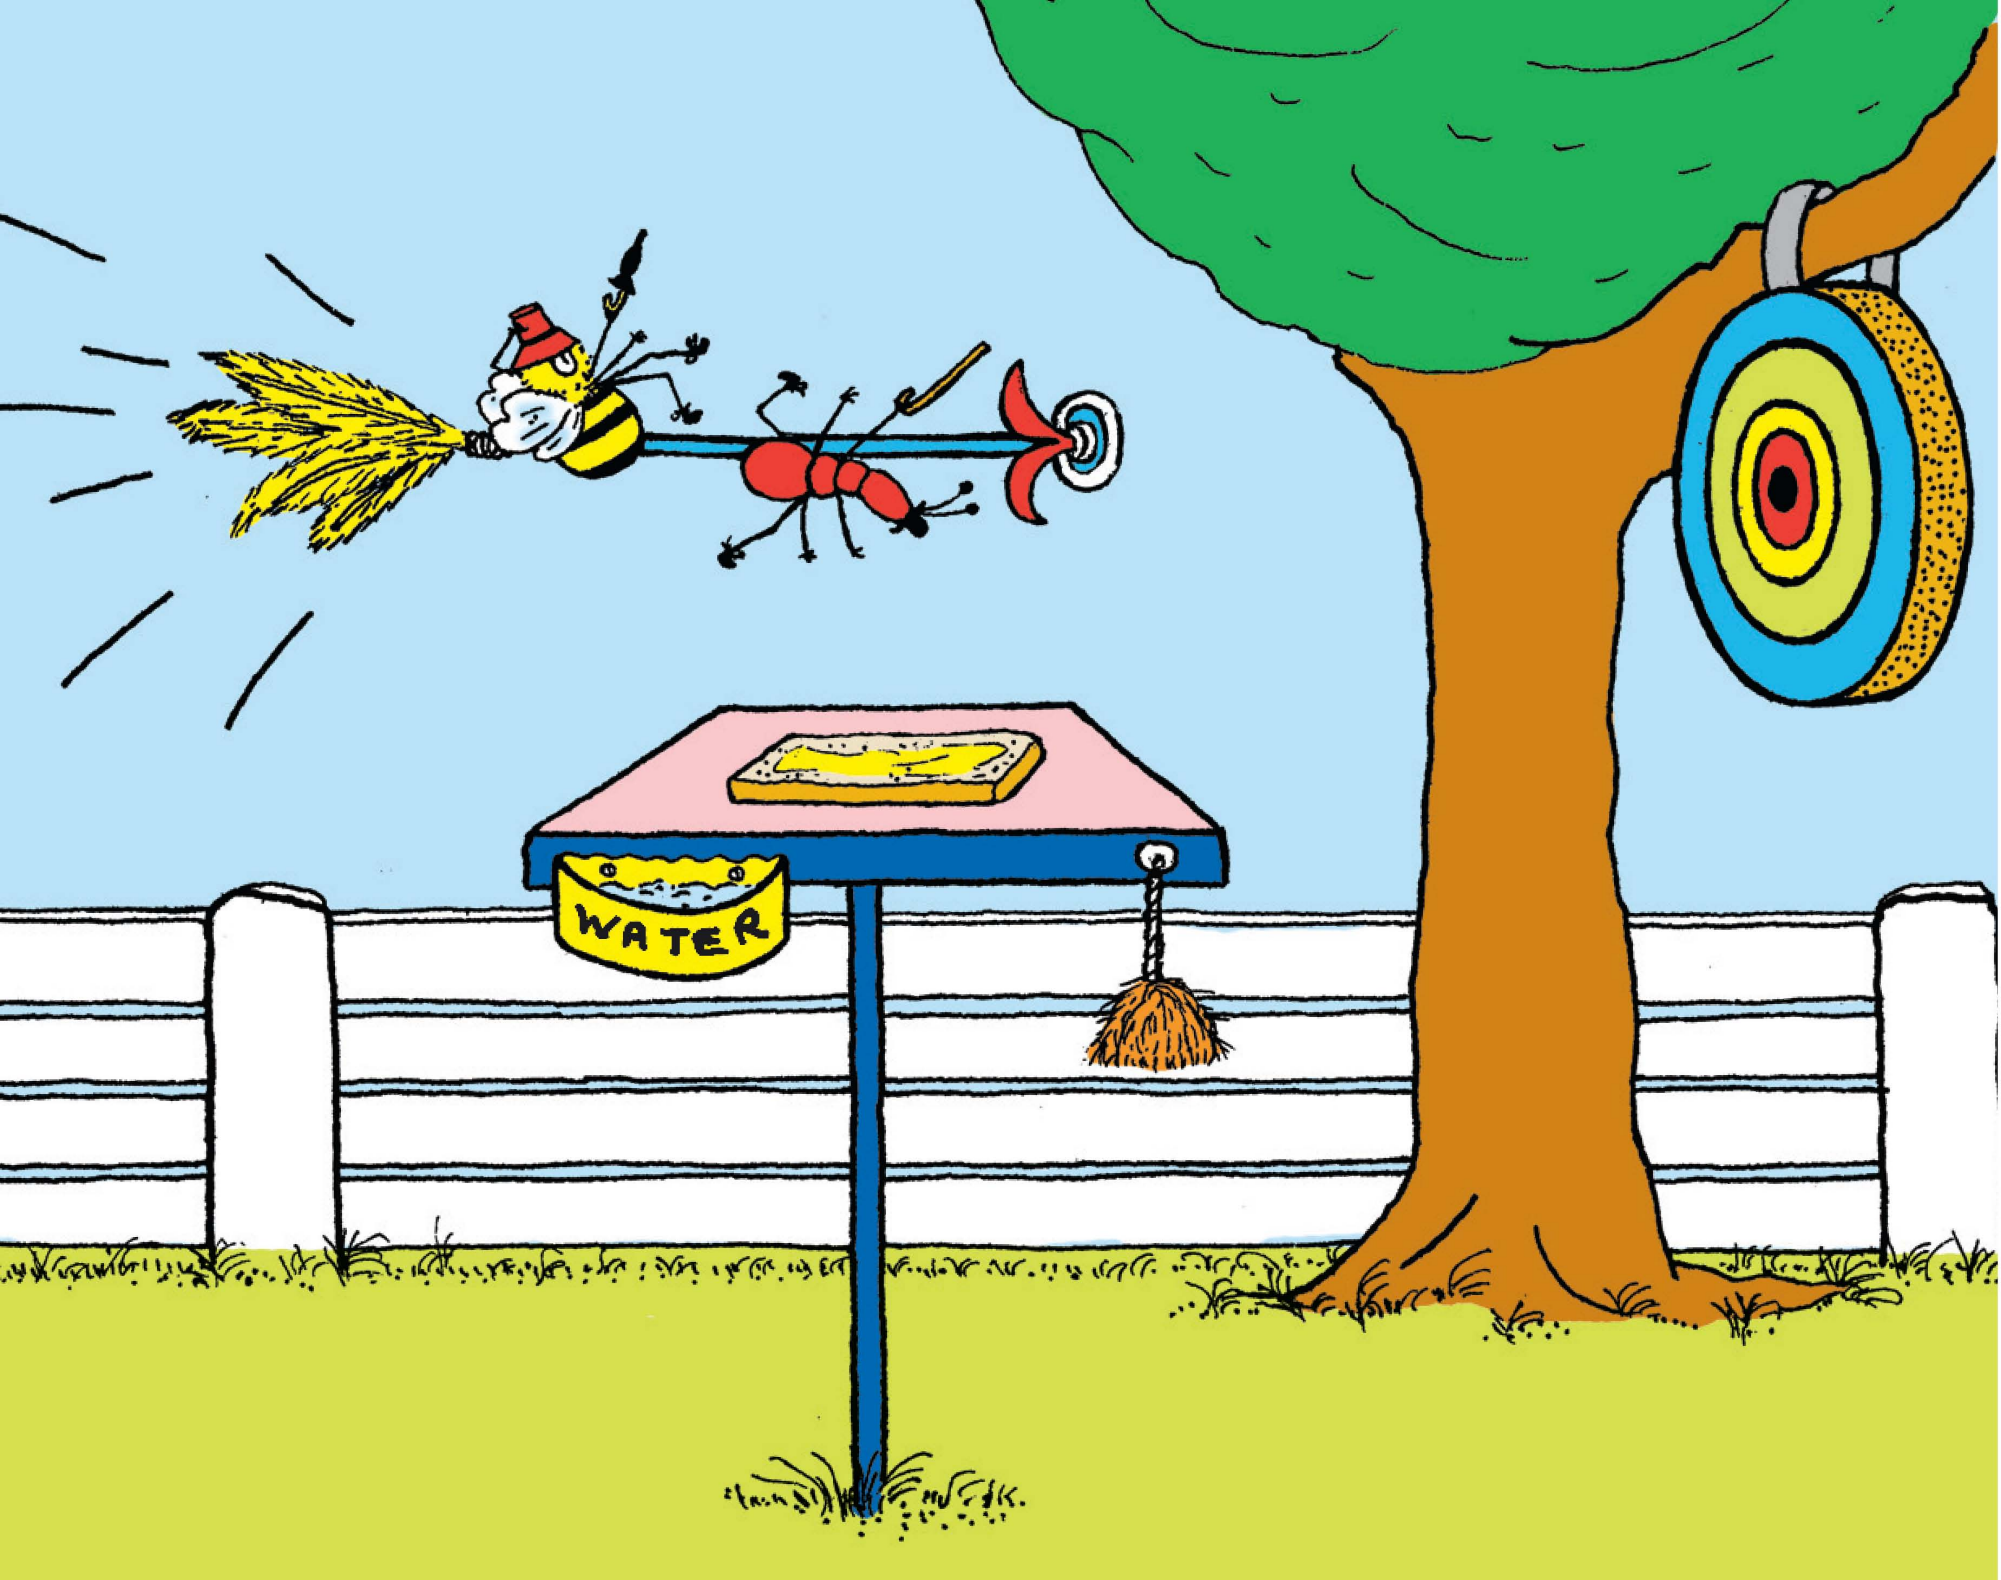

The girl wanted to play in her garden with her bow and

WATER

Ant and Bee sat on the arrow and the girl took her hand off the string of her bow . . . SWISHHHH, the arrow flew through the air towards a target on a tall tree . . . BUT the arrow went so fast that Ant fell off . . . on to a slice of buttered bread

The bread was for the birds.

The bread was soft and so Ant did not get hurt when Ant fell on to the bread. But then Ant did not want any more rides on the arrow . . . so Kind Dog and the girl played with a ball and Ant and Bee went to sit on a chair

Ant and Bee sat on the chair for a long time.

The girl did not see Ant and Bee sitting on the chair and the girl nearly sat on Ant and Bee!

Ant and Bee got off the chair quickly and went to sit on a
