

Helping your children choose books they will love

Lovereading4kids.co.uk is a book website created for parents and children to make choosing books easy and fun

Opening extract from Little Peter's Railway the Picnic

Written by Christopher G.C. Vine

Published by
Christopher Vine

All Text is Copyright © of the Author and/or Illustrator

Please print off and read at your leisure.

Published by
Christopher Vine 2012

Christopher Vine has asserted his right and moral rights under the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act, 1988 to be identified as the author of this work.

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted in any form by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, or otherwise, or recorded by any other information storage and retrieval system, without prior permission in writing from the author.

Printed by The Amadeus Press
Copyright © 2012 Christopher Vine

ISBN 978-1-9088970-22

The Peter's Railway Series

The railway built by Peter and his Grandpa runs across the farm, between their houses. It makes visiting each other a lot of fun and there have been many adventures along the line.

The locomotive, Fiery Fox, belongs to Mr Esmond, but Peter and Grandpa have made everything else themselves: The track, wagons and even the little buildings at the stations.

In this story Grandpa is left looking after the family. Whatever will he do to entertain Peter and the young twins, Kitty and Harry? And what will it lead to?

The Picnic

Grandpa was driving the small steam train down the line to Woodland Cottage. Grandma was riding in her special saloon carriage.

She was going to the cinema later with Peter's Mum and Dad. Peter and the twins, Kitty and Harry, were staying at home with Grandpa.

Grandma and Mum gave him lots of instructions. "There's a beef stew, don't forget to heat it up..." "Make sure they are all in bed by seven o'clock..." "Get them to brush their teeth..."

They were still giving poor Grandpa his orders as they drove off down the road.

Grandpa however, had his own ideas on how to entertain children!

